2016 Phragmites Treatment Areas

Provo Bay and Powell Slough will be the main areas of focus for Phragmites treatment in 2016. We have worked with the Utah County Weed Abatement supervisor to make a request for funding from the Department of Natural Resources' Watershed Restoration Initiative.

Seven things to do at Utah Lake in the Spring

The weather is getting warmer. Spring is almost here! Ice and cold weather obviously change what activities you can do at Utah Lake, but soon you'll be able to get back to enjoying the lake through a wider variety of recreational activities.

Click Here for some fun ideas for activities that you can do at Utah Lake this spring.

Remember to use #utahlake when you post your lake adventures on social media.

Water levels

Lake levels have been getting noticeably higher over the past few weeks. Let's keep our fingers crossed for more precipitation and a healthy spring runoff. Water levels at Utah Lake can be monitored on this website.

Utah Lake Photo Contest

Details for the 2016 Utah Lake Photography Contest are available on our website! Entries will be due on May 28, 2016. Here are some photos from last year's contest: "Crack in the Ice", by Christian Peay (Right), and "Morning Rays", by Becky Hunt (Below)
